Call for Sponsors
8th ACM International Conference on Nanoscale Computing and Communication 2021

Call for Sponsorship

ACM NanoCom 2021 aims at further growing the research community contributing to Nano-computing and Nano-communications and to stimulate the knowledge transfer to industries. ACM NanoCom 2021 will highlight novel research results, stimulate novel and breakthrough ideas, and identify directions for short- and medium-term exploitation. Both novel theoretical and experimental research contributions are welcome. Conference will feature contributed and invited papers, posters, and keynote addresses in this emerging inter-disciplinary field.

ACM NanoCom offers different support package possibilities that can suit organizations of any size. These packages offer an opportunity for the supporting organization, to promote its visibility, services and products to a large community. It is also an opportunity to demonstrate support to research and development activities in the nanoscale computing and communication community.
